PREFACE.

The task of compiling the first issue of LLOYD'S CLERICAL DIRECTORY has been a heavy one indeed. This could not have been otherwise, however, because of the character of the undertaking. For many years it has been the intention of the editor to provide for the American Church such a book of reference as that which now appears; but being hindered by a variety of circumstances, he is the more gratified at the successful issue of his final efforts in this direction. For many months busy hands and brains have been untiring in their united endeavors to procure the enormous mass of data which is now placed at the disposal of the Church. Correspondence, perfectly mountainous, has brought us very near to the large majority of the clergy of the American Church; in other cases, perhaps, it has fixed a gulf between us. For example, it is scarcely probable that the writer of the following letter, has much love left for the editor, specially, because it came in reply to the first circular sent out, and two others followed to his address. My reverend brother writes: "Your circular of June 4th was received. I do not understand that you have authority to demand the circumstances of my life and services, and very respectfully decline to furnish you with the information desired." Of course, we had no authority then, we have no authority now, over the clergy or anybody else in any respect at all; but it is plain that if a considerable number of the clergy were as illy-constructed as the good brother whose letter we have printed, we should soon find organization an impediment, order a farce, and efforts towards consolidation fruitless. But one other similar effusion to this reached the editor's desk, he is glad to relate. It ran as follows: "The American Church has all the information about her clergy that she ought to have. At any rate she has got all about me that she will ever get."

The last concise statement calls for comment. It is not pleasant to differ with a brother concerning matters in which both are deeply and genuinely interested. But it is just because the American Church has not all the information she has the right to have about her accredited officers that LLOYD'S CLERICAL DIRECTORY was planned and is now published. None can be found who will take issue with this position, save only the writers of the epistles quoted above; and we are assured that the information which is herein presented will prove an inestimable benefit to the Church.

It is particularly agreeable to turn to some representative letters from prominent clergy in the Church relative to this publication in vindication of its purpose and character. From the thousands of letters received from every part and diocese of the American Church, we speak quite truthfully when we state that the letters about to be quoted are specimens of hundreds of a similar kind. One of the best known of the clergy, writing from Massachusetts, says: "Your work comes at an opportune time. It is indeed refreshing when so many clergymen are equipped with cheap degrees, to note a work where every honor and every degree is made valuable by the printing of its source. Such work was well begun by (naming a well-known publication.) Your work will fill a long-felt want in the American Church. You have my best wishes for its success." Before presenting another letter it may be well to state, in connection with it, that, in this issue of LLOYD'S, it has not been found possible (nor desirable, perhaps,) to discriminate much in relation to the vexed question of degrees. In the issue for next year such discrimination will be made, and, as far as possible, the source and value of every degree will appear. That an unseemly trafficking in degrees among the ministers of religion is carried on is too well known; but that many of them, aroused to a sense of the iniquity of such trafficking, are disowning it, specially among the clergy of the American Church, is not so well known. It is, however, none the less, true, and there is room for congratulation.

The American Church has reached a period in her remarkable history when she has the right to expect that her ministers will recognize the necessities of their positions and so provide them, in their own persons and stimulate others to profit by their example. We mean, frankly, that there was never a period in the life of the Church that demanded learning, gravity and cultivated powers as much as the present. The man of parts, if the "parts" include self-control, is a man of power, and the sensitiveness of the poor and humble classes never fails to spot the well-bred and well-learned. Let us, therefore, hope that the day of bogus and spurious degrees is over, and that the present time will be an epoch in the academic and theologic life of every seminary and college student in divinity. That men will earn promotion, "purchase to themselves a good degree," and cease forever to strut in borrowed plumes or climb up some other way into the folds of the learned and cultured.

Another clergyman (of the Diocese of Newark) wrote: "I am delighted to hear of your project. I will certainly do all I can to aid you in making the work trustworthy in matter and successful in accomplishment. I have long felt that we in the American Church needed a Directory modeled after the style of the English Church, "Crockford," which to Anglican Churchmen all the world over is about an absolute necessity as a guide and clerical encyclopedia." Here's a man who understood the situation. "Crockford" is this year in its twenty-ninth issue. It has appeared with unimpaired regularity and with ever increasing brilliancy (of accuracy and completeness) for twenty-nine years. Its work has resulted in benefiting the Church of England to an incalculable extent. It is looked for with almost feverish anxiety every year nor has it ever to seek a welcome in the parsonage or the palace. It has grown to be a specially valuable part of the machinery of the Anglican Church with her Colonial handmaids, in fact, an indispensable part. You ask, "Why?" The reason is plain. Each individual clergyman and every single parish and diocese has been made a particular study by the editor of that marvelous work; his or their career, constitution, history, changes, attainments, labors, accomplishments, have been keenly scrutinized and faithfully recorded, with a persistency and a kindliness that have won universal commendation and respect. The editor of LLOYD'S CLERICAL DIRECTORY has the grace to admire, he trusts he has the ability to make use of the good example set him by Crockford's Clerical Directory. The day, he hopes, may come when the present publication will be as highly esteemed by American Churchmen as is the English publication by Anglican Churchmen.

There are, among the clergy, some who have objected to the second question on the circulars sent out to them for information; that, namely, asking for place of birth. Most of them, however, on the score of inutility. One, in particular, takes deep and serious objection to this question as to place of birth, and writes: "To Englishmen and Canadians, against whom there is unquestionably a prejudice in this country, it cannot be well to publicly announce this fact of nationality." The editor sympathizes with the writer of this plaint; but, at the same time, he would also like to add that he cannot agree that he is right in his objection. A careful study of our returns will reveal the fact (quite unsuspected by us) that a very large percentage of the clergy of the American Church are English; that many of them occupy positions of honor and prominence; that they are respected for what they are, not despised because they were not born under the folds of Old Glory. So deep and intimate, and, indeed, so sacred, are the ties and mutual associations of Englishmen and Americans, that to accentuate possible disagreements and to provoke strife between such brothers would be a grave wrong. The Englishman has, of course, to take his chances, and to bear his disappointments and rebuffs which beset and try American clergy as well as he. Above all, if he (or anybody) will cultivate the virtue of common-sense, study character and temperament, encourage the activities of his powers of adaptability, he will never find his nationality a disability nor his good qualities unrecognized. Englishmen are largely increasing the number of clergy in the American Church.

I fear, from some of the letters that have found their way to my desk, that the purpose of this Directory is not generally well understood. One good, earnest man (a non-graduate) wrote to enquire whether the editor intended his work to belaud clergy with degrees and belittle those without them, or no. He went on, in a very pleasing fashion, to give a brief account of the labors of his life, and concluded by saying (perhaps not in so many words) that if I would do non-graduate clergy the service to show what they had accomplished without a degree, he would be glad to send in all the information desired for the Directory. It was a pleasure to assure this candid correspondent that the purpose of the new Directory was a broad and comprehensive one; that honor would be given where honor was due; that no fact of importance to any clergyman should be omitted from his record; that, in a word, due justice would be done to all. The effect of my letter was magical. It educed one the of pleasantest of the literal flocks of letters that have flown to the editorial table.

A well-known Archdeacon informs the editor, in all seriousness, that his Directory will be productive of injury to the older clergy; that their long record, many changes, etc. if made public, will place them at a grave disadvantage in the eyes of the parochial elective powers, to wit, the vestries. It is the painful question anent the "dead line," again cropping out. So far from inflicting injury it seems to the editor that, while it may be admitted that some cases of well-proven incapacity may be brought to light by the Directory, yet, though this may seem to some to be a wrong, it is, in reality, on the other hand, the conferring of a benefit upon the Church. It will result, I believe, in moving her to make provision for the aged, infirm and the failed among her clergy. The editor feels it imperative upon him to express his conviction that there is always a parish for the "good old priest," somewhere in the Church. The "dead-line" cry may serve a purpose; but it is exceedingly rare to find age the only or the most serious objection to an elderly clergyman seeking work. If to inform the Church of the life and labors of her officers be to inflict an injury upon them, the fault lies at the door of the objectors and their abettors. The moral is obvious. Verb. sap.

The clergy, on the whole, have been singularly kind and prompt in replying to the circulars sent out, though many of them needed the prod of one, or, in some cases, even two more than the first. The brethren, a considerable number, who have finally refused to send their data will, I hope, before another year, come round to the position already taken up by a magnificent majority of the clergy of the American Church in relation to the Directory who regard it as distinctly opportune and likely to serve a good and lasting purpose. One gentleman, down East, not being able to oblige me with the necessary information asked for, was at a serious loss as to how he was to dispose of the stamp sent him for reply with circular No. one. He would not use it for himself he said, and be dishonest, he could not bring himself to place it on the letter forwarded to our office. He ultimately solved the difficult problem and—tore the stamp into pieces. The pages that follow are an ample witness to the cordiality and the practical sympathy with my plan of the clergy of the American Church. I thank them for this. I, further, promise that, in the years to come, I will spare no trouble, no expense, to provide a work for the Church which every bishop, priest and layman actively interested in her welfare and progress will find indispensable. This initial issue is, necessarily, lacking in many particulars, though, as far as it goes, and as far as was possible at this time, the completeness aimed at and desired, has been, to a considerable degree, obtained. I shall expect suggestions by the hundred. I shall welcome them whencesoever they come. At all events there is no one more conscious of the shortcomings of this first issue of LLOYD'S CLERICAL DIRECTORY than the editor himself.

It may be well to state now the scope and plan of the Directory. It is necessary that the clergy should know just how much and what kind of information about themselves I seek. Judging from the appalling fullness of some hundreds of the returns recently sent in I fear that many of my correspondents will be disappointed when they have glanced through the information given under their names. The editorial sabre has been freely wielded. No information but that only which will be of interest to the Church generally will be admitted. For example, many of my brethren who are members of philanthropic societies, presidents of secular boards and committees have, kindly, sent this information to me. But while they will see that nothing pertaining to their academic standing or clerical career has been omitted, such irrelevant matter has been laid aside. Coincident, I suppose, with the deep interest that is manifested to-day in personal and family history quite a surprising number of correspondents has sent in information of their family, going back into the "good old times." This information, interesting, of course, to the subject himself, but to no one else, has, for this reason been withheld from the pages of the Directory.

Place of birth; Seminary or College, with degrees and date; Ordination, to the Priesthood and Diaconate and by whom; Positions, with dates; and published works, publisher and price, comprise the information specially desired. Though asked for, a large number of the clergy has failed to give their names in full.

This is an important point; and I trust that next year I shall have the satisfaction of being able to print every man's name as it was given to him in Holy Baptism. Wherever it has been possible for me to do so names are given in full. To supply those still lacking is only possible to the clergy themselves, since no official list contains them. In the case of parishes and missions as much as can be of use to Church statisticians has been printed. Date of organization, communicants, diocese, state, incumbent and assistants of any of the parishes and missions are all that can be of widespread interest to the Church. As my research has been conducted on independent lines and the information given is as recent as could possibly be had, it is hoped that we have attained a large measure of accuracy. Where the information is incomplete it has been due to inability, at the last moment, to secure it.

To give a vivid picture of the strength and unity of the Anglican Communion, to furnish correct historical data and to inform the earnest Churchman I have printed the Succession of the Episcopate of the English, Scottish and Irish Churches as well as that of the American Church. For these lists I have to acknowledge my indebtedness to Crockford. For other facts and figures I have to thank the pages of the Living Church Quarterly, one of the best of Annals and a useful compendium of information.

While their kindness and encouragement have placed me under obligations to the American clergy at large, I desire to thank, in particular, the following gentlemen who have afforded me a great deal of valuable aid, securing information from sources otherwise inaccessible to me: The Revs. A. L. Byron-Curtiss; C. D. Brown; L. B. Baldwin; C. D. McCully; A. E. Carpenter; R. H. Cotton; Wallace Carnahan; H. C. Duncan; Percy T. Fenn; A. E. George; J. A. Gilfillan; S. Hart; N. O. Halstead; C. Hymnal of the Church

WITH MUSIC.

Edited by Rev. JAMES H. DARLINGTON, D.D., Rector, of Christ Church, Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

DESCRIPTION.

Size, 12mo ($4\frac{1}{4}$ x 7 inches); weight, 14 ounces; printed on pure white "Bible" paper, of durable texture and great opaqueness; binding simple, attractive and dignified.

THE NEED.

The great need of an edition of the Revised Hymnal with music in compact form for the use of choir and congregation alike, has been widely felt throughout the Church. To supply the demand for a book that is satisfactory from a musical standpoint, yet portable in form, is the object of the present edition. The editor in his own parish felt the want of a musical Hymnal that could be placed in every pew at a moderate cost; one that would give to the congregation, in a single, handy volume, the very best popular Church music. His need has been that of nearly every parish priest in the land, and to meet it, a book answering such requirements has been most carefully prepared. Hearty, soul-stirring congregational singing can now be heard in our churches with this new Hymnal in the hands of the worshippers. Rectors and Organists are invited to give it a careful examination.

STYLES OF BINDING.

- Style 1 Cloth (black, dark purple, margin, or red) with red edges, bound so as to open freely. 75 cents net; by mail, 85 cents.
- 2 French Seal Leather, square corners, gilt edges. $1.50 net; by mail, $1.60.
- 3 Turkey Morocco, limp, round corners, gilt edges. $2.50 net; by mail, $2.60.

 These prices are strictly net. All orders for ten or more will be forwarded charges prepaid.

Address

THOMAS WHITTAKER, Publisher,

2 and 3 Bible House, New York.

A SPECIMEN RECOMMENDATION.

"You have hit the nail squarely on the head with your congregational Hymnal. It has been wanted ever since the revision of the Hymnal. In almost every instance the tune you have selected is the tune everybody in the Church or out of it knows best to the words. It jars dreadfully to try to sing a dear old hymn to a strange tune. The Church will certainly thank you for giving us the needed Hymnal at a price we can pay.

Scribner's New Theological Works

A CONCORDANCE TO THE GREEK TESTAMENT

According to the texts of Westcott and Hort, Tischendorf, and the English Revisers. Edited by the REV. W. F. MOULTON, M.A., D.D., and Rev. A.S. GEDEN, M.A. 4to, $7.00 net.

Of this most important volume the Congregationalist says: "A great work it is and worthily executed. The average minister will certainly be buying at least four books at $1.75 each and will think he cannot buy the book before us at $7.00. We must earnestly protest against such a foolish and suicidal preference." The British Weekly, too, has said: "It would be difficult to overpraise this invaluable addition to Biblical study . . . it is a book which ought to be on the study table of every minister and student."

The Literature of the Old Testament.

By S. R. DRIVER, D. D., Professor of Hebrew in Oxford University. Crown 8vo, $2.50 net.

A new and revised edition from new plates of Canon Driver's great work, of which Dr. Philip Schaff has said: "It is the most scholarly and critical work in the English language on the literature of the Old Testament." The bibliography has here been brought up to date, and an account of the critical views on the Old Testament promulgated since 1891 has been inserted.

For previous and forthcoming volumes see complete catalogue.
